

In A World That Changed

See the world through different eyes
Where people can be people
Instead of hiding in disguise
Where a face becomes a name
And you can't hide your tears
By crying in the rain

In a world that changed
In a world that changed

To the leaders of England, to the rich and the poor
We're all talking in riddles, Let's not do it anymore
To my nearest and dearest, to strangers gone by
Let's join this dominion
'Cos we're all part
Of this great divide

See the world through the same old eyes
Where the rulers of our nations
Still wear that same disguise
They send our boys to war
Under false pretence
Flags are burning down in deserts
And religion don't make sense

In a world that changed
In a world that changed

To the leaders of England, to the rich and the poor
We're all talking in riddles, Let's not do it anymore
To my nearest and dearest, to strangers gone by
Let's join this dominion
'Cos we're all part
Of this great divide

Words and music by Guy Barnes & Al Hutton
© Barnes/Hutton Songs 2008. All Rights Reserved.

The Other Side Of The Sun

There's no more words inside of me
My mind's run dry, but it's alright
There's nothing I could say to you
To change your mind, but it's alright

You ain't got those old feelings
That hurt so much, so good you'd wanna stay
You want me a memory
And you just wanna leave me that way

It's alright, It's alright
Sometimes never can be fine
'Cos when it takes to long
You're just left there on the other side of the sun
It's alright it's alright
Dreams are taken by the night
And when it's done
You're just left there on the other side of the sun

There's no more songs that I can sing
These rusted strings, chords I cant find
Wasn't much good now anyway
Although, you always said play what was on my mind

You don't like those old love songs
That made you hurt so good you'd wanna dance
Into my arms and into what was once a true romance

It's alright, It's alright
Sometimes never can be fine
'Cos when it takes to long
You're just left there on the other side of the sun
It's alright it's alright
Dreams are taken by the night
And when it's done
You're just left there on the other side of the sun

Mid 8

The other side, the other side of the sun

The other side, the other side of the sun

Words and music by Guy Barnes
© Guy Barnes Songs 2008. All Rights Reserved.